WE NOMINATE

Andrew Thomas Hatcher, one of this country's ablest practitioners in the field of "government public relations" and the first Negro to hold a high-level White House portfolio, who continues to attract, and merit, attention as a spokesman for the President of the United States. A 38-year old native of Princeton and a product of the local school system, Hatcher with an unusual journalistic and political background is holding forth as assistant White House Press Secretary—the position in which he back-stops Pierre Salinger and often on occasions of such far-reaching importance as this fall's announcement of the United States-British demand for an immediate ban on all nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

A self-described "professional second man" and a politician in the unusual sense of the word (meaning a life-long worker in government as opposed to the conception of the conniver who finagles for party or personal ends), Hatcher was one of the early probes for "new frontiers" and, in fact, was one of the first half-dozen appointments made last January by the then newly elected John F. Kennedy. The road to the White House started here in the Borough, first led to New England and World War II service with the Army, and, ultimately, to California where he played major roles in three losing campaigns before qualifying for what one political observer loves to call "the uncertain rewards of Washington."

Hatcher, newly established as a resident of the District of Columbia and a potential force in the District's development as a recognized Congressional District, has the primary behind-the-scenes responsibility of doing the research for, and writing, White House press releases. However, when he is projected into the limelight, he has the capacity for winning the plaudits of the Washington press corps. Several weeks ago, for example, he came forward with a near-classic definition of a public relations operative: "The trouble with this job is overexposure. I get it from you guys if I go wrong. And I get it from the President on the other side."

A highly promising member of the High School's Class of 1911, and recalled by classmates as "an all-around man," Hatcher qualified for scholarship support at Springfield College, Mass., and completed two years of study on the New England campus before joining the World War II Army. He served with distinction in the Armed Forces, earned his commission, and returned to Springfield in 1916. During his service he had been stationed in Oakland, Calif., and had forged associations that had come to mean more than his Springfield diploma. Consequently, when in 1917 he was offered the editorship of a leading Negro weekly newspaper, "The San Francisco Reporter," he turned his back on college life and accepted the post.

Hatcher's newspaper work led him into California politics on a major scale. In 1950 he made the jump, accepting a job as an aide to Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas in her unsuccessful and bitterly fought campaign for the U. S. Senate. Two years later, combining forces with his present superior in Washington, Mr. Salinger, he was a member of Adlai E. Stevenson's press staff and continued to labor on Stevenson's behalf through the latter's second losing battle with President Eisenhower in 1956. Hatcher's devotion to the Democratic Party, a devotion of which he is intensely proud, became a key factor in the organization that carried all before it in securing the 1960 nomination for President Kennedy.

For exemplifying the conception of the "home-town boy who makes good in a big way"; for his capacity for work and his willingness to place his public responsibilities above all else; for not being afraid to declare, "my whole life is politics"; he is our nominee for

TOWNSHIP LOOKS AHEAD

Will Ask State Aid. Taking a six-year look into the future, Township Committee Monday night voted unanimously to apply to the state for planning assistance. The decision was made at the request of the Planning Board.

Aid from the state is handled in this way: the first year, the state pays 50 percent of the planning budget, but not over $3,000. The second year, the state pays 40 percent, and so on until the sixth year, when the Township pays all.

As plotted on Monday night, the Township will budget a minimum of $6,000 a year for planning purposes, disbursing $36,000 over the six-year period. The state's total contribution will be $9,000, making a total of $45,000. To qualify, a municipality must have a continuing planning program whose technical aspects are being done by a professional, and must show progress toward the complete adoption of its Master Plan.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, explaining the application, pointed out that the minimum amount constituted a commitment by Township Committee, but he expressed his belief that no future Committee would ever deny this minimum to the Planning Board

Plan Ahead. In a memorandum to Committee and the Planning Board, Jack Kendrick, Township planning consultant, outlined some two dozen planning items, which could occupy the Planning Board over the six-year period:

- By the end of 1961, it is hoped that all the evidence will be in, and that the Planning Board can make its recommendations on research and development areas.
- A restatement of the objectives of the Township in planning, including a deeper analysis of the Master Plan and a statement of its objectives, to be examined by all citizens of the Township.
- Analysis of the 1960 census figures, when they are available, so that Township growth can be projected.

• Analysis of the impact of regional growth on the Township, hoping for Township representation on some larger regional planning body, with adjacent counties and municipalities.

• Analysis of the educational zone.

• Consideration of a larger business zone to support the Township when it is fully built-up.

• Further exploration of the Open Space program, leading to a public presentation of its ideas sometime next spring.

• Work on a final road plan.

• Study of financial resources and priorities for various projects.

• Maps to document the Master Plan.

• Examination of administrative efficiency.

Agenda Is Full. In discussing these subjects, Mayor Fairman said that the load on the Planning Board had quadrupled in two years and that the Board is now holding two meetings a month instead of one, devoting the second meeting to actual planning, and the original session to the consideration of subdivisions.

At the request of the Planning Board, Committee passed an amendment to the land subdivision ordinance providing that final subdivision plans be in at least ten days before Planning Board action so that Board members will have a chance to study them.

Committee authorized the expenditure of $2100 so that the Planning Board can continue to pay Mr. Kendrick for work on research and development and roads, which he expects to complete by the end of the year. Mr. Fairman emphasized that the delay was due to Planning Board problems, and not to Mr. Kendrick, who had done all his work on schedule.

On Falloot. The falloot shelter ordinance was passed unanimously by the three Committeemen present (Fairman, Marvel and Mount) following a brief public hearing. The ordinance requires a building permit for such shelters, but waives the fee. It also establishes as Township standards, the pamphlet published by the Office of Civil Defense.

J. F. Cherry, The Great Road, said he thought that shelters were a Federal responsibility, and asked Committee to pass a resolution promising reimbursement to householders who built shelters. —Continued on Page 2

Committee men John Mount and William Marvel said they felt that this would be an unwise move. Mr. Marvel suggested that some shelter planning against the day when state or Federal agencies issued concrete suggestions.

Snow Again. The question of snow removal came up again. Mr. Marvel, who has been, with Committeeman Maurice F. Healy, Jr., in favor of municipal removal, told Committee that he had decided public removal was out of the question for economic reasons. He said that since the Township and put in sidewalks over the objections of many householders, he did believe the municipality had some responsibility. He presented a three-point program, asking for: an ordinance with snow removal time-limit and a fine; a program of public information, urging and helping residents to make prior arrangements for snow cleaning and purchase in 1962 of a little snow-removal tractor which could also be used to clear snow from Lake Carnegie for skaters, and to mow Township grass in the summer.

Mr. Mount, who has opposed Mr. Marvel on snow, commended him for his report.

PERSONALITIES

Jac Weller, Herrontown Road, long-time ballistics expert, who last week was asked to determine whether the bullet introduced as evidence in the dramatic Sacco-Vanzetti trial of the '20's actually was the slug that killed the Braintree payroll messenger. Mr. Weller, a firearms hobbyist, will report his findings at a later date, basing his opinion on microscopic comparison of cartridge cases and slugs which were not generally used until after the famed execution of the two defendants in 1927.

Mrs. Alan Trendewick, 343 Snowden Lane, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Donor Committee, which this week launched an urgent drive for additional registrants to help this community continue a 12-year old service of "free blood"—unduplicated in most towns and cities throughout the nation. #### Person To Person

The other day we were asked if we knew how long man had been wearing clothes, and after admitting we had no idea, we were reminded that the Bible tells us that Adam and Eve sewed fig leaves together and made themselves aprons.

And in Genesis 3:21, the Bible tells us, "Unto Adam also and to his wife did the Lord God make coats of skin and clothed them." So there is no question that clothing in some form has always been with us.

However, the record is not clear as to when man first started to clothe himself in cloth of his own weaving, such as wool, cotton or silk. It is believed that wool cloth was the first fabric to be made, probably in the form of crude felt, even before the dawn of history. Cotton probably was next and, according to the Chinese, silk was next in order, the first known use being in China in 2650 B.C., more than 4600 years ago.

We don't have to guess how long the automobile has been a necessity to man. That's the one field in which we try to keep right up to the minute, so that once you trade with us, you will feel we are a pleasant necessity to your satisfaction. ## TOPICS Of the Town

JOHN McKENNA NAMED
As School Superintendent.
Dr. John J. McKenna Jr., acting superintendent of the Township Schools since June, was appointed superintendent by the Board of Education last Thursday. The unanimous vote was taken after Richard Pearson, chairman of the screening committee, submitted his report. Other committee members were Mrs. Dorothy Schoch and Prof. Lawrence Thompson.

The committee studied the applications of 20 candidates, 13 of whom were submitted by Chicago, Columbia, Harvard, New York and Rutgers Universities. The field was narrowed to four, who were invited to Princeton for interviews. "As the committee concluded its work," Mr. Pearson stated, "it became clear that Dr. McKenna's qualifications were superior to those of any candidate under consideration."

Dr. McKenna became principal of Valley Road School in 1956, and was named assistant superintendent in 1959. He received his training at Montclair State Teachers College, Seton Hall College, Columbia University and New York University. He and his wife and daughter live at 12 Randall Road.

In other business, the Board discussed the proposed request for a variance to build garden apartments on a site bounded by Valley, Mount Lucas and Jefferson Roads. Mr. Pearson will attend the hearing this Thursday. David G. Peterson was appointed substitute physical education teacher to replace Joseph Fiefenbach, who has been recalled to active duty with the Air Force.

The committee plans to establish a scholarship to the nursing school.

DONORS SORELY NEEDED
By Blood Service. The Princeton Blood Donor Service, a 12-year-old program sponsored by Princeton Hospital and the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross, has issued an urgent plea for more donors. Unlike many communities, blood is free at Princeton Hospital.

Donors with any type of blood, both the rare "negatives" and the more common O and A positives, are sought by the service. About 1000 donors are active currently, and 997 donations have been made to hospital patients thus far this year. In 1960, 1226 pints were given.

The Red Cross points out that donors are asked to give twice a year, and that giving blood is a simple, yet all-important, contribution. More blood is needed than in previous years, following advances in the treatment of hemophilia and leukemia and the increasing intricacy of surgical techniques. Exchange transfusions for new-born infants, once unusual, are common occurrences.

Calls to the Red Cross for blood run between 40 and 45 per week, and in turn between eight and 15 calls are made by Red Cross volunteers to obtain a single donation. Last week, 56 donors were required following the arrival of a patient on Friday who had required ten pints per hospital stay on previous occasions. Between Friday and Monday midnight, he had received 20 pints.

Such a situation is not unusual, taking into account that a single case of bleeding ulcers can wipe out the blood bank's entire reserve. Those interested in registering for the program should call the Red Cross at WA 4-2404.

P.U.C.F. HAS $99,400
For 40 Percent of Goal. The Princeton United Community Fund has received contributions totalling $99,400. This figure represents 40 percent of the $250,000 goal.

The Special Gifts Division, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Coleman duP. Donaldson, has completed solicitation with a total of $73,640. Mrs. Gilbert Lea's division reported an increase of ten percent over last year.

Other partial returns by division include Research and Industrial, $21,430; Neighborhood, $1,925; Building Trades, $1,085; Mercantile, $735; Princeton University, $735; and Professions, $460.

Four firms have been listed on the campaign's Honor Roll for outstanding participation. They are the Columbia University Industrial Reactor Unit, American Institute of Public Opinion, Western Electric Laboratory and University Laundry and Cleaners.

Contributions from Western Electric, under the chairmanship of Theodore Stauderman, averaged $13 per employee, an increase of 75 percent over last year. Gifts from University Laundry and Cleaners represented an increase of 100 percent over last year.

APARTMENTS ASKED
On Jefferson Road. A proposal for a garden apartment containing "upwards of 100 units" has been submitted to the Township Zoning Board for consideration this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The project, known as "Mansgrove," would be built on 10-12 acres belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Horatio W. Turner. The land lies between Jefferson and Mt. Lucas Roads. Because the area is in a quarter-acre single-family zone, the Turners must obtain a variance to build the apartments.

The primary reason for the presentation is to determine whether the land can be used for apartments. Specifics about the number of units, the actual acreage and so on, will apparently be presented later if the Township grants the use variance.

The maps presented with the appeal and the appeal itself differ as to the precise acreage and precise number of units involved. Between 100 and 200 units are proposed, with a minimum of 10 acres and a maximum of about 18. The owners say that the project would be in the $2½ million category.

As drawn for the Zoning Board, the apartments would be two-story Colonial in style, some with three bedrooms and two baths, others smaller. There would be exits into Jefferson and Mt. Lucas.

The loss occurred last week. Just before she and her husband, an investment broker, sailed on the Queen Mary for an extended European trip. Mrs. Williamson reported the theft to Cunard Line officials before the liner sailed. New York police are investigating the possibility that a sizeable "ring" of thieves is responsible for similar trunk thefts on the New York dockfront.

Each candidate will be asked to speak for about five minutes on the following question: "What housing problems in the Township or Borough are not being met and what solution would you provide?" A question period will follow the speeches.

Mrs. Melvin Gottlieb will act as moderator. Mrs. Gino Treves has charge of arrangements for the meeting.

The cool air arrived last weekend, all right, bringing rain along with it and dropping temperatures 30 degrees into the low 40's.

It will be milder for the next few days, the Man said, but the long-range forecast into mid-November is for below normal temperatures. Above-average rainfall, too, just to round out the picture.

WINDSOR DECIDES

On Three Apartments. Two prospective builders of garden apartments have been refused and one has been accepted by the Zoning Board of Adjustment of West Windsor Township.

The Board refused the application of Sands Associates and of the Stanfield Corporation. The application of the Princeton Recreation Center was approved.

In the Sands case, the Board denied the application because the Mill Road tract proposed by the developer adjoins one of the most densely-populated residential areas in the Township. (There are 76 homes in Princeton Colonial Park and approval has been given for a total of 125. There are 25 in Windsor Estates.) Also, the sewer effluent would empty into a flood plain area already given to flooding.

In the Stanfield case, the permit was denied because the sewer effluent would empty into an area which is already swampy, and because the proposed disposal system would be directly behind present houses. The Penn-Lyle Road site was also rejected because the Zoning Board believes that the land is too close to existing dwellings.

The Board approved the proposal of Princeton Recreation to build 200 garden apartments on Route One.

News Of The THEATRES

MCCARTER CAST WEAK

In Long "Saint Joan." The new resident company of McCarter Theatre began its fall drama season last week with Shaw's "Saint Joan." The cast was thoroughly disappointing, particularly in comparison with the enthusiastic and cohesive Association of Producing Artists of the 1960-61 season.

Heading the list of criticisms is the length of the play—3½ hours, with two exremely brief intermissions. Although Shaw is noted for his wordiness, there are many speeches and whole sections of dialogue which he cut without impairing the impact of the whole.

Heroine Weak. Rae Allen, as Joan, proved inadequate for the heroic dimensions of the warrior saint. Her voice was uneven, with a monotone quality interspersed by sessions of declamation. In mistake volume for expression, she was unconvincing, and her portrayal in the last three scenes was especially inconsistent.

Miss Allen appeared to approach the role strictly to approach the role strictly to point of view, and this lopsided interpretation fell flat as the play progressed.

Dauphin Excellent. A large score on the plus side was made by David Vaughan, whose Dauphin was entirely convincing. His accent, expressions and actions were consistent, and the harmony of his characterization stood out sharply in the Babel created by the other actors.

An accident prevented Ramon Bieri from appearing as Warwick Saturday night, and his scenes naturally suffered. Arthur Littlejohn read the lines in the conversation with Cauchon and de Stogumber, and appeared without script subsequently.

In spite of the poorly conceived and irritating portrayal of de Stogumber by William Shust and the wodeness of Cauchon, played by Gyllum Evans, the scene carried itself, thanks to Shaw's wit and ability with language.

In addition to these two, Charles Herrick and Mark Healy, the two canons, and Al Corbin, the Inquisitor, were also responsible for the failure of the trial scene. The two canons had a tendency to screech in an irritating way, and the Inquisitor droned in his effort to sound portentous.

Edward D'Arms did his best to redeem the situation with his sympathetic and sincere portrayal of Brother Martin, and succeeded in creating a measure of spirit among the dullness of the others. As Captain La Hire, the gruff soldier, he was equally good.

Dunois Satisfactory. Jon Cypher's performance as Du-nos did not create a lively impression, but he managed satisfactorily to bring out some of the aspects of his relationship with Joan. The scene in Rheims Cathedral was somewhat disappointing, although his earlier appearance as the frustrated commander outside Orleans was stimulating.

Among the other actors who played good parts were William Bassett and Jack Dodson. As Baudricourt, Mr. Bassett opened the play on a fairly high note, ranting in good voice and blustering very nicely. His appearance as the Gentleman of 1920 was less successful, because the entire epilogue was poorly handled and merely ran down like a disconnected record player.

Jack Dodson was the only bright spot in the epilogue where he played the English soldier who made the cross for Joan. He handled that small part superbly, and was reasonably convincing as one of Joan's first friends, Bertrand de Poulenguey.

Charles Welch appeared favorably as Baudricourt's comic steward, and it should be interesting to see him as Androcles. Keith Herrington failed to create a sharp impression as the Archbishop of Rheims, and the failure contributed to the play's overall flatness.

Part of the failure of "Saint Joan" to come across as it should can be attributed to its director, Milton Lyon. Such matters as consistent pronunciation and wooden delivery are clearly within his province.

However, better direction would obviously not solve the problem. With few exceptions the actors were unable to handle their assignments, and the few excellent or good ones could not lift the others from the doldrums. Perhaps the change of scene from me-

ANDROCLES AND FRIEND: When Shaw's "Androcles" comes this weekend to McCarter Theatre, he will bring along his friend the lion, suitably attired and sheathed of claw. The lion will be portrayed by Edward D'Arms and Androcles by Charles D. Welch.

News Of The Theatres

diaeval France to Rome in the early Christian era this week will be beneficial.

CHANGE IN CAST

For "Androcles," Gretchen Kanne an actress with wide experience in repertory, will assume the role of Lavinia in Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion," scheduled to open this Friday at 8:30 p.m., as the second offering in the McCarter Theatre fall season.

Miss Kanne is replacing Betty Lou Holland, who withdrew from the cast because of illness in her family.

A graduate in drama from the University of Southern California, Miss Kanne played in repertory in Boston, where her assignments included roles in plays by Pirandello, Wilde and Graham Greene. She also played in productions staged by the Dallas Theatre Center and the Arena Stage, Washington. At the Arena, she played the leading feminine role in Shaw's "Man and Superman" and was featured as Cassandra in "Tiger at the Gates."

Off-Broadway, Miss Kanne played Viola last season in the Helen Hayes Equity Group, version of "Twelfth Night." In this production, she played opposite Charles C. Welch, with whom she will appear again in the "Androcles."

Mr. Welch, who will portray Androcles, is a veteran of more than 400 television roles, ranging from gangster to priest. He has appeared on the Frank Sinatra Show (26 weeks) and on Studio One (17 performances).

McCarter Guild has reminded its members of the special showing, for Guild members only, of the film, "The Instruction of Hamlet." It will be seen at McCarter next Tuesday at 8:30.

HERE COME THE PUPPETS

In German. The European puppet master, Ernst Guenter Schmidt will bring his puppets to Princeton on Monday under the auspices of the German Club of Princeton. The show will be given at 8:30 p.m. in Murray-Dodge Theatre on campus, with an admission price of 25 cents. Refreshments will be served following the show.

Herr Schmidt's "Puppenkabarett" has entertained audiences throughout Germany, Austria and Switzerland with parodies of the contemporary political scene and spoofs of such public figures as Pius and Elvis Presley.

A musical accompaniment provides its own commentary on subjects as varied as modern dance and traffic jams. The show is in German, but even those who are not fluent in the language can appreciate the "Puppenkabarett."

IT'S NEW To Us

TO INDIA—BY BUS

Ready to Sign on? Yes! Back in 1957, a dusty and adventurous young Englishman made the first overland bus trip from London to India. Since then, two caravan tours have been formed (one by that same young Englishman) to take travelers on one of the most exciting tours the world of tourism has to offer.

Travelers, the agency at 195 Nassau, will give you full details, but we're prepared to tell you a few things about the overland tour in the short time left before we pack our bag, stow the bedroll and embark for India ourselves.

The tour takes about two months, London to Ceylon via the "Waltzing Matilda Overland Service" (Australian) or London to Bombay on the Garraw-Fisher tour. Fare, Dover to Colombo, is about $300, and you pay in addition, about $3 a day for accommodations and food.

Meals are prepared by you, or by inn-keepers in villages along the way. You take a supply of canned foods, a can-opener and a thermos and you use the little stoves provided by the tour.

Camping is not done, as a rule, because rest-houses are so plentiful and inexpensive, but that bedroll we mentioned is a requirement, and there may be times, of course, when you'd rather camp out. Under

"Skirts Elegantes"

One of a kind At Home skirts, designed to swirl around your ankle, are now at 18th Century Bouquet. Described by their creators as "Skirts Elegantes," they have been explored by The New York Times, will shortly appear on the "Times" women's page.

Made by Jane Adriance and Alice Burke, two Princeton designers, these skirts are wrap-arounds, fashioned of soft pastel tweeds, herringbones, fat plaids or solid color flannels. One has a chertreuse underskirt that flirts out when the wrap-around falls back. Another has a purple sash tassel to contrast with pale blue tweed. There is moss green with pink French embroidery at the waist, and brilliant red flannel with a sash.

A herringbone has frog closings and black piping down the front and a white felt (this one isn't wrap-around) has beaded pockets and braid in an apron effect. Prices start at $35.

The buses, whose specific routes vary according to which tour you buy, will take you through Paris, Vienna, Zagreb, Sofia, Ankara, on the Garraw-Fisher. You can go through the Holy Land, stopping at Beirut, Damascus, Jerusalem, Amman, Baghdad, Teheran.

Continuing from Iran, the bus takes you across Baluchistan and into Lahore, then to Delhi, Jaipur, the Ajanta Caves, Bombay and, if you are on "Waltzing Matilda," on to Dhawar, Bangalore, Trichinopoly and across to the island of Ceylon. Here, at the busy port of Colombo, you find a ship to take you back home.

The trip is about 9,038 miles, on hard-surface bitumen roads most of the way, except for some stretches in Iran. You go behind the regular tourist scenes, obviously, and see the countries and their people as they really are.

We particularly like the frank brochure that says "On parts of the route, hotels are indifferent and sanitary arrangements primitive. One must be prepared to accept them as they are. This is a trip for friendly tolerant people who can accept the element of adventure and the lack of amenities that go with it. It is a trip you will never forget."

Well, Travelers agree, but realizes that you may not be able to take two months off this year to visit Ceylon. In the interim, the agency suggests a few trial runs before the bus leaves for Colombo. Or, for example, you can spend $88 and only 7 1/2 hours taking a coach-to-coach bus trip from here in California, traveling in a deluxe wagon with lounge, snack bar, lavatories.

Or, you can jump to the Golden Triangle or the Golden Circle drawn by British West India Airways, catching seven islands and 4,514 miles (for $218) within the triangle, or 15 islands, 5,601 miles ($250) within the circle. These geometric devices are drawn to include Montego Bay, Antigua, and so on.

Other temperaments will choose the Alaskan ski tours offered by Pacific Northern Airlines, to Mt. Alyeska, Anchorage, the Kachemak Ski Club and other scenic spots in which to break a leg.

If you've had enough of Nassau Street for a while, Travelers suggests a spell of living in Greece. It costs a good bit to get there, but living costs are so low that, if you can stay long enough you can make the fare and the living expenses equalize. Spain is cheap, too. Air India will get you there, for a visit, on a 17-day excursion rate that's $139 less than regular fare. October through March 31 only.

JUST AN OLD WRAGGE

To Wrap Around. This fall, B. H. Wragge, who designs the clothes women wish they could afford, has done some careful things with the wrap-around skirt that bear closer investigation. Stop at 18th Century Bouquet and Boutique on State Road and see what we mean.

In a pumpkin and brown ensemble, worn with a side button jacket, Mr. Wragge has made a skirt that looks wrap-around, but really goes only half of the way. This means that you have the security of a standard slim skirt, but the flare and the flair of a wrap-around, because the wrapped part flows back as you walk, and reveals the contrasting color underneath.

MUSIC In Princeton

(David Hamilton, who will be the music critic for TOWN TOPICS this year, is a graduate of Princeton University. He has received graduate degrees in music from Harvard and Princeton, and also studied at the University of London. At present he is Music and Record Librarian at Princeton University.)

FRENCH BARITONE HEARD
In Varied Program, Princeton's 1961-62 concert season opened Monday evening in McCarter Theatre with a recital by the French baritone Gerard Souzay, who presented a varied program including songs by Schubert, Beethoven, Debussy, Duparc and Ravel. The accompanist was Dalton Baldwin.

Mr. Souzay is well known as a vocal stylist, not as the possessor of one of the world's great voices, and he will not be criticized here for lacking such a voice! since he is probably not in a position to do anything about it. His present voice is more than serviceable, within certain (interlocking) limitations of range and volume, and he is already in complete control of it. From the technical point of view, his mezzo voice singing, in particular, is superior, and his diction in seven languages (including an Irish brogue) was admirable.

Naturally, Mr. Souzay's strongest suit is French, and it was the French groups that formed the most satisfactory part of the evening. Here the voice was most smoothly produced, the phrasing most delicate, and the rhythm—which in these songs, is a direct function of the language—most clearly articulated.

Even the carefully-made but obvious Duparc songs were a pleasure to hear in such hands, and the cantilena of the Ravel "Hebraic Songs" was a tour de force of breath and intonation. These latter were sung with the original Yiddish and Hebrew texts, rather than the more usual French translations.

German Group Disappoints.
With all this, it is no pleasure to have to say that Mr. Souzay did not match his own best standards in the German groups. The problem was primarily rhythmic, and would seem to be directly related to the increased importance of meter in German text setting. Additionally, in the faster songs the singer's methods of production were unsatisfactory; a kind of "subito piano" effect on every note resulted in a sketching rather than a singing of the vocal line.

The unwillingness to keep a firm meter was most obvious in the Schubert "Doppelgänger", where the text is declaimed over a series of slow chords in the piano, slowly building to a climax whose effect is directly dependent upon the inexorability of the piano's chords. Because of the forcefulness of his projection of the text, Mr. Souzay made a good effect with the song, but how much better it would have been with some help from Schubert!

Similar remarks might be made about the performance of the Beethoven cycle "An die ferne Geliebte," but the presence of such a work on the program is certainly to be commended as a small step away from the very mixed bag which most recitalists seem to feel that their public requires. Nobody does everything well, and a singer is likely to stub his toe sooner or later if he insists on trying everything; it should be sufficient to sing French songs as well as Mr. Souzay does, and it is to be hoped that he will return to us with a program based upon that premise.

The encores began with Stravinsky's "Tilim-Bom" and descended, via Joaquin Nin's "Granadina," to an Irish "folk song" called "The Stuttering Lover;" they were not worthy of the program which preceded them, or of the art lavished upon them.

SINGERS WELCOME.
With Choral Groups, The YMCA Glee Club and the Hopewell Valley Chorus are seeking area residents interested in choral singing.

The YMCA Glee Club is directed by Paul Assenheimer and meets Wednesday evenings. The group will sing at Y functions and community programs.

The Hopewell group meets Monday evenings at 8 in the auditorium of Hopewell Elementary School. The Chorus is preparing for its third annual concert, scheduled for May 11. No tryout is necessary to join. Mrs. Jeanne McConnell is musical director.

NEW ROYCHOIR RECORD
Released by Decca. Decca Records has released the third album recorded by the Columbus Boychoir, "Singing for the Joy of It."

The choir, under the direction of Donald T. Bryant, sings a selection of folk songs and spirituals. Princeton boys in the choir include Ray Colcord, Royce Anderson, Charles Scasserra and Stephen Bryant.

mier Khrushchev at Vienna looked like a boy asking his father for the keys to the car. "Apparently the answer was No."

Former President Eisenhower was not forgotten, however, as Mr. Sahl commented on his speeches for the Republican Party: "They raise one question: what explains Mr. Eisenhower's sudden interest in politics?" The Canadian-born comedian also chided President Kennedy's lukewarm reception of astronaut Alan Shepard as compared to the lavish Soviet welcomes for her astronauts: "Almost as if he was saying, 'You did very well for someone not in the family.'"

Mr. Sahl kept the audience entirely under his control throughout the hour-and-a-half that he was alone on the stage. His delivery, unlike those of the new wave of "sick" comics, is very informal and off-the-cuff, and in exceedingly good taste. His range of topics included the administration, the cosmonauts, Harvard, Algeria, television, schools, literature and unemployment ("which we thought we had solved with the Berlin crisis").

Mr. Sahl's strength, in addition to his tasteful presentation, lies in not directly attacking anything with a vengeance, but rather pointing up little absurdities and allowing his audience to make the judgement. It is his talent that distinguishes the true satirist from the "sick" comic. Mr. Sahl in reality the little man who is impressed with the President's speeches about sacrifice and difficult times, and then asks, "But just what does he want ME to do?" He can't find a specific answer.

Appearing with Mr. Sahl was a talented young vocalist, Miss Joanie Sommers, a singer with magnificent stage presence. A pert little girl with a sultry jazz voice that really moves, Miss Sommers bounced vivaciously through a series of jazz standards, bringing the house down with her syncopated rendition of "This Can't Be Love."

Last year, the Limelighters toured with Mr. Sahl's show and have since become nationally known on their own. One hopes that Miss Sommers will be received as well. Her light, gay and fast-paced act was a perfect complement to Mr. Sahl's wit, which Time Magazine described as "Will Rogers with fangs." Not bitter, not obnoxious, Mr. Sahl proves, as did Will Rogers, that wit is a powerful medium for criticism.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Guns of Navarone (October 11-24) takes about 15 minutes to get started and then never lets up in its adventure and excitement. Carl Foreman produced and wrote the two-and-a-half hour spectacle from the World War II action-adventure novel by Alistair MacLean.

Briefly, the story concerns an Allied team of saboteurs who are sent on a suicide mission to destroy two German radar-controlled guns on the Greek island of Navarone. The team has only six days to do the job because of a proposed Nazi attack on a nearby island on which are 2,000 British soldiers. The near-impossible task is beset with dangers, both of nature and the enemy.

Technically, the film is superb. Especially noteworthy are a storm at sea, probably the most brutal and punishing storm ever filmed, and the magnificent climax which is a masterpiece of editing. The weaknesses include tendencies to moralize on war (which Foreman happily keeps short and follows immediately with more action), plus a few inconsequential flaws.

Top acting honors go to Anthony Quinn as a Greek soldier, and David Niven as the demolition expert. Other performers include Gregory Peck, Anthony Quayle, Gia Scala and the gigantic guns. Rating: the best high adventure film in some time, and the most exciting American picture of the year.

Splendor in the Grass (October 25-31) is a story of sex, suicide and misunderstood youth handled, however, with surprising good taste by producer-director Elia Kazan and a relatively unknown cast. It is based on an original work for the screen by William Inge, author of "Bus Stop" and "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs."

Natalie Wood stars as the young heroine whose mother is obsessed with sex. She loves Warren Beatty, but he finally rejects her because of his sexual fears created by his father. Miss Wood is saved from a suicide attempt, but placed in a mental institution. After her release, she learns of the marriage of Beatty following the suicide of his father.

Although overly emotional at times, Miss Wood nevertheless turns in her finest performance to date. Kansas in 1928 looks an awful lot like Long Island, but this is only a minor weakness. The title is from William Wordsworth's poem, "Intimations of Immortality" and runs: "Though nothing can bring back the hour of splendour in the grass... We will grieve not, rather find Strength in what remains behind." Rating: not a pretty side of life, but nonetheless a powerful American handling of a controversial theme.

THE GARDEN

Spartacus (October 18-28) is Kirk Douglas' answer to "Ben-Hur." It is bloodier, has a bigger and better-known cast, is set in Rome 100 years earlier and contains a mass-crucifixion scene. However, it is shorter, by nine minutes.

Kirk Douglas plays Spartacus, the Roman gladiator who led a revolt of slaves in 73 B.C. and eventually raised an army of 90,000 to challenge the Roman legions. After a few victories, the slaves were crushed by Roman might, and the leaders crucified. Sir Laurence Olivier is cast as Marcus Crassus, the Roman leader.

Others in the all-star cast include Jean Simmons as the slave-girl in love with Spartacus, Peter Ustinov in his Oscar-winning role as the director of a gladiatorial school, and Charles Laughton as the senator Crassus. Minor roles are handled ineffectively by Tony Curtis as Antonius and John Gavin as Julius Caesar (good grief!).

If one isn't overcome by three hours of blood and thunder, one may find a message of freedom from oppression. But sometimes it's too much to take, as, for example, when Douglas looks down from a cross to see Miss Simmons holding up their child. In color and wide-screen. Filmed in Hollywood. Rating: a gory spectacle.

It's New To Us

He repeats in a grey tweed suit combined with charcoal wool. In this ensemble, there is a short jacket with a four-inch ascot looped around the neck. (A device he uses often this fall, by the way.) The skirt, with a deceptive fly-front closing, actually falls back in the same half-wrapped effect.

One of his most dramatic dresses is firecracker red with drawstring waist and navy piping offside down the front. Another is wool jersey, the color of warm sand, with five-inch grey outlines of circles carefully arranged against the sand, and a soft doughnut of grey silk chiffon to slip around your neck as a necklace, a cowl, an ascot or simply as a charmer.

Wragge isn't the only man of the house at 18th Century, of course. Aigner holds forth with those bags you already know about, and this year, matching hand-made spectacles, some in burlap and leather combinations, others in warm russet leather. All have stacked heels and an air of eternity in styling and craftsmanship.

MITCHELL HEADQUARTERS OPENED: Princeton Citizens for Mitchell for Governor have opened headquarters at 245 Nassau Street. Here, Mrs. Francis J. the Brunswick Pike back to Princeton proved to be the launching pad for five charges that Borough Police placed against him.

At the Teen Canteen dance in the Nassau Street School Saturday night, DeVido was asked by the attending patrolman, Charles D. Harris, to leave because he had no canteen membership card. Refusing, DeVido was forcibly escorted outside while using profane language.

Police then charge that DeVido tried to run Patrolman Harris down with his car in the school driveway. He was arrested shortly after an alarm had been issued for him, Sergeant Robert J. Anderson and Patrolman Donald Forward taking him into custody on Nassau near Murray Place. Out on $600 bail, DeVido will face these charges: (1) attempted assault with an automobile; (2) disorderly conduct; (3) reckless driving; (4) driving without lights; and (5) failure to wear corrective glasses while driving.

LEAF COLLECTION SET For Borough Residents

A leaf collection schedule for Borough residents has been announced by the Borough Engineering Department.

The collection will continue through the leaf season, according to Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw. The Department would prefer that the leaves be placed between the curb and the sidewalk instead of in the curb, to avoid accumulation in the gutters. Leaves or cuttings placed in containers will be picked up on regular collection days.

The important thing, Mr. Brokaw reported, is to coordinate the pick-up of leaves with the homeowners. The collection procedures will be greatly improved, he said, if householders raking leaves can do so the day before collection in their area.

This is the first year that the Borough has set a formal collection schedule. Residents can learn what day leaves will be collected on their streets by calling the Engineering Office at WA 4-3495.

HOPEWELL SAYS "YES"
 Township Committee Votes. Its 3-2 vote, Hopewell Township Committee passed on first reading last week an ordinance amending the zoning law to allow the erection of apartments in the Township.

The amendment is designed to accommodate the proposed seven-story Princeton Manor apartment project, a cooperative for retired persons. Backers of Princeton Manor seek to build on an Elm Ridge road tract in the Township. A final hearing on the proposed amendment will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. in Township Hall.

COURT RULES

In Hopewell Council Case. Seven Hopewell taxpayers have won part of the suit they filed against Hopewell Borough Council Judge Ralph L. Fusco of Mercer County Court, ruled on Friday that Council's Lafayette Road paving ordinance was "defective." A substitute ordinance was introduced and passed on first reading Monday, however, Borough attorney David L.

Smith has said that he will appeal.

The discarded ordinance, passed April 24, had provided $16,000 to pave and curb a 2.1-mile extension of Lafayette with the Borough bearing the entire cost. In the past, such costs had been assessed to abutting property owners. The victorious plaintiffs contended that the chief beneficiary of the ordinance would have been the Rockwell Manufacturing Company. The Court declined to rule on the conflict-of-interest charge made in the suit. Judge Fusco stated that it was impractical to apply strict conflict-of-interest standards in the governmental affairs of small communities.

YOUTH CONFESES

To Several Crimes, Anthony M. Mastin, 17, of 23 Bank Street, described by police as "a juvenile delinquent on probation from California," was apprehended at 2:30 Thursday morning by Sgt. Francis J. Maguire, Ptl. Douglas Watson and Ptl. Russell Shangle in the home of Frederick L. Arnold, 40 N. Stanworth Drive which he had entered illegally. Mr. Arnold, a librarian at Firststone Library, had called the police from an upstairs phone.

Mastin was questioned by Detective Arthur F. Gallant the following day in Mercer County jail where he admitted taking clothes valued at $370 from Mr. Arnold's home earlier in the month. Upon further questioning, he admitted breaking into a temporary shack office of Kline's Esso Station at Nassau Street and Murray Place in September and stealing $146. He also admitted taking $32 in silver dollars from Mr. Arnold's home on October 6.

Mastin will be turned over to the juvenile authorities for prosecution.

BIKE CLINIC PLANNED

And Then . . . the Police. Lieutenant Richard Steiner and Patrolman Walter Emann of the Township police force will visit Township schools on Monday and Tuesday, October 23 and 24, to show a film on bicycle safety and to explain bicycling rules to Township school children.

After the final talk, on Tuesday afternoon, Township police will begin a week of bike "arrests," picking up boys and girls who violate the rules laid down during the lectures. Offenders will not be taken to juvenile authorities, but they will be reported to each school principal with a cautionary word.

Lt. Steiner has listed 11 major offenses which police will watch for.

Two on a bike . . . riding with no hands or feet . . . riding on bicycle safety . . . going through "stop" signs . . . groups of cyclists riding both sides of the street . . . hitchhiking rides on cars and trucks . . . failing to use hand signals . . . riding without lights at night . . . faulty brakes . . . riding a bike too big for the rider . . . riding on sidewalks.

Police Chief James Campbell pointed out that there is no Township ordinance against sidewalk riding, and stated that a cyclist who is riding at a moderate speed with due regard for pedestrians would probably not be stopped.

Deadline November 1. Borough Assessor Ed Warren has asked the Mayor to remind senior citizens that applications for the special tax exemption for the 1962 tax year must be filed by November 1st. Applications have been mailed to all those who had previously filed for the 1961 tax year.

Forms are available at the assessor's office for those who intend to file for the first time. A call to the office (WAInut 4-3439) requesting the form could save a special trip to Borough Hall. The $800 exemption is available to those who have reached age 65, own the homes they occupy and who had an annual income of less than $5000.

Enugu and Princeton. Just before last Tuesday's meeting with the Borough Council, the Mayor learned that one of our eight distinguished Parvan Fellowship guests was an assessor in his home town. It is Mr. Bernard Osakwe of Nigeria, and he serves as an assessor in the capital city of Eastern Nigeria, Enugu.

Naturally, we arranged to go. Mr. Osakwe together with Princeton's assessor, This Monday evening they could be found with their heads together studying the assessment methods of Princeton and comparing notes. Enugu and Princeton, it seems, have much in common when it comes to the trials and tribulations of property valuation.

Something Special. This Mayor will always remember last Tuesday's meeting of Mayor and Council as a very special occasion: for the visit of the young men of such diverse backgrounds lent a rather unique setting for the handling of the Borough business. Business went on pretty much as usual; but each of us somehow had just a little bit more feeling for the privilege which is ours in this kind of local self-government.

Our visitors in addition to the assessor and another young man from Nigeria, included men from Poland, Iran, Southern Rhodesia, Ghana, Sudan and Kenya. They will be studying at the Woodrow Wilson School throughout this academic year, and we hope that they will have many opportunities to develop a second home here in Princeton.

From Portugal. One of the existing dimensions of the Mayor's office in Princeton is the never-ending opportunity for contacts with visitors from around the world. On Saturday afternoon in the pouring rain at Palmer Stadium, I was privileged to visit with Milton Moniz, press attache to the Permanent Mission of Portugal to the United Nations.

Moniz was in Princeton as part of the continuing effort of the UN committee to introduce foreign diplomats to American communities. This young man was an eloquent spokesman for his country's views on world affairs and we have arranged for an exchange of books on our countries. The volumes on Portugal will be made available to the Public Library and the University Library.

From The United Kingdom. The week was filled with visits from other nations. On Saturday evening, the Mayor welcomed Daan J. Haak, born in Holland and now an Englishman residing in Romsey, Hampshire. Daan is President of the British Junior Chambers of Commerce. He was accompanied to Princeton by Mr. Eric Stevenson of Scotland who is a vice president of the European Junior Chambers of Commerce.

Princeton's Jaycees were hosts to these young men and they graciously allowed the Mayor to present a bit of Princeton history to our visitors and to bring a bit about

 Chief Campbell also said that some of the above offenses such as riding a bike that is too large, were traceable to parents, and he urged parents to make sure that the child and the bike were matched for size. He also urged that children be discouraged from night riding.

POLICE CRACK DOWN
On Youthful Fighters: Township police announced this week that they will deal swiftly and severely with anyone involved in feuds, gang fights or similar breaches of the peace.

The warning came as a result of a knifing at midnight on Birch Avenue, apparently in retaliation for a knife injury inflicted last month on a Princeton resident at the New Jersey State Fair.

In the fight earlier this month, James Craig, 22, of Trenton, was knifed in the hand by Morris Still, 22, 36 Clag Street. Police say that Craig then fought with Still and knocked him down. The latter lost consciousness, either from Craig's blow, or from striking his head on the pavement.

Arrested by Township police, Still was charged with disorderly conduct and the use of abusive language; with atrocious assault and battery, and with carrying a concealed weapon.

Before Magistrate James Hill on Saturday morning, he pleaded guilty to the disorderly charge and was fined $50 and 150 court costs. On the other two charges, he was sent to the Mercer County Jail to await grand jury action.

Still told Magistrate Hill that, as a visitor to the State Fair in Trenton last month, he had been attacked by a Trenton youth and knifed in the side so severely that he required hospitalization.

Against "Through" Designation. The Valley Road P.T.A., has taken a stand against the designation of Valley Road as a "through street."

The executive board of the P.T.A. voted unanimously against the recommendation of the state Bureau of Traffic Safety that Valley be made a through street and the intersection stop signs be reversed.

The board based its decision on the number of children who walk along Valley Road each day, and who cross the Valley-Jefferson intersection.

In addition, the board stated its opinion that it would be unwise to designate Witherspoon Street as a main route off 206, again basing its decision on the number of children who use Witherspoon each day.

Members of the executive board asked also that parents —Continued on Page 11—

A. There could be. The Borough's paid Planning expert has submitted to the Planning Board a report containing many proposals for the future of the Borough. Page 160 of this report lists ten proposed urban renewal projects, beginning with the present Hulsch - John - Green - Witherspoon project, and ending in 1975 with a Quarry-John - MacLean - Witherspoon project.

I am very much against these proposals for several reasons, not the least of which is that Urban Renewal is being used as a device to change, radically, the character of the Borough.

'95' DISCUSSED

At Citizen's Meeting. The problems of federal highway Route 95 were discussed last week at a citizen's meeting in West Windsor Township, called by the "Citizens Committee on the Optimum Location of Route 95." The committee, organized by a group of West Windsor citizens, is designed to gather information on the proposed highway and to work with local government agencies to allow the public to have a voice in the road's location. William A. Stuart, of Cranbury Road, who was elected co-chairman of the Committee along with Kenneth M. Lipscomb, of Cranbury Road, reported that nearly 100 people attended the meeting and that the expanded committee now numbers between 80 and 100 citizens. Members and other interested parties were urged to write their state and local officials and deliver their own views of Route 95.

The Institute offers its clients semi-finished or finished homes in some 20 models, ranging from one to four bedrooms. They are designed for vacation use, retirement and year-round housing. Actual building of the homes is done by local firms with established reputations. A private, non-governmental group, the Institute provides a financing plan of life insurance for the buyer plus fire and extended coverage on the house. There are no other costs except monthly payments which, for many families, are less than they pay in rent.

TAXES AND TAX RATES—A PROPOSAL

To the Citizens of Princeton Township:

However strongly you feel about present tax rates in the Township, your greater concern should be with the future. Taxes never seem to go down, and many forces are present to push them up, quite sharply in the years ahead. If we are going to compensate for these forces and keep taxes within manageable limits, there is no time to lose. To do this, we must reach out for a new understanding of our problems; we must sweep out the cobwebs and get some currents of fresh air circulating around it.

The longer one thinks about this question, the clearer it becomes that the only promising route to take is that of broadening our base of tax rates by having research, and perhaps light industrial, installations located in the Township. There seems to be general agreement on this proposition—and that in itself is progress, for it was not always so. Prior to 1957, in fact, Princeton Township had not squarely confronted this issue. Opening the local campaign that year, Jim Foley and I discussed the "residential island" question, asking whether we could afford any longer to do without nonresidential tax rates. Our opponents to that election hastily joined us in endorsing the idea, and from that time onward the wave of acceptance has spread. Our proposition four years ago was that the Township had a choice to make. At a cost, it could remain purely residential and seek to limit the steepness of its tax rises by enforcing ever larger acreages, and thus ever lower densities of population, in areas not yet built up. Even if one chose to overlook the moral and social consequences of such policy (I would argue that this would still not solve the tax problem. There are three reasons for this, and each is an unarguable fact.

First, the Township insists on maintaining a first-class school system—and I heartily agree with this determination. Second, sustaining top-quality education is costly anywhere; and in a fast-growing town like ours, these costs grow at a faster rate than the residential tax base expands, producing regular, sharp increases in taxes. Third, with school costs taking almost 50 cents of each tax dollar, and the county about 25 cents, the Township has power to influence only about one-quarter of the costs. Because the Township Committee's area of maneuver is so small, savings that could be effected by financial wizardry or "rigid economy" (although of course worthwhile) would not be of great significance in the big picture. We might be dealing in the range of some hundreds of dollars, or maybe even thousands, when the only thing that is really going to make a noticeable difference is millions of dollars of new non-residential taxables. None of these facts has changed in the last four years, but the Township has in the meantime made its choice. We are not to be a purely residential island, but a primarily residential town that will nevertheless seek substantial growth of its nonresidential taxables. This decision is reflected in the enlargement of the research zone, following adoption of the Master Plan. But having made this choice, we have still not found effective means of implementing it. In any tangible and meaningful sense, our progress has been zero. Except for ORC, the research zone stands today as bare as it was four years ago, a testimonial to the concept of preserving open space perhaps, but scarcely evidence of achievement on the tax rate front.

Why is this so? Why, after the Committee changed the zoning ordinance to permit general office buildings in that area, on the understanding that a firm was anxious to put up a sizable office building there, did the fish slip off the hook?

I think the fundamental reason for the present stalemate is that, as viewed by the problem in entirely too narrow a frame. Quite unintentionally, to be sure, we have been offering a series of counter-inducements to firms considering locating in the Township, instead of constructing a package of incentives. We have too often thought of ourselves as the gatekeeper, checking, so to speak, on the credentials of applicants. We have apparently believed that we have adequately prepared a permissive legislation was enough. And now as we try to define the conditions on which certain types of light industry might qualify for admission, we follow the same essentially negative policy. Through such perennial modifications of the zoning ordinance, we may get one or two new ratables in the Township. BUT ONE OR TWO WILL NOT MAKE A DIFFERENCE. WE CAN FEEL IN OUR POCKET-BOOKS—because these ratables will not be acquired without some costs to the Township. To show a net gain on the public account, we must have substantial development of the research zone. And we will not get it through the "gatekeeper approach."

Have we ever really asked ourselves the question: What are organizations looking for as they consider building a research installation in a particular locality? There is mounting evidence that such firms are really looking at the total community, trying to estimate the balance of costs and benefits for the company itself and the families of its employees. They must naturally consider taxes, land prices and costs of building on a particular terrain. But they also scrutinize certain things that rarely enter into our thinking about the specific problem of tax rates. Does the municipality, for example, expect the new firms to build the roads and install the sewer and water lines—or is it prepared to assume these costs as an incentive to locate there? In Princeton Township, we have no clearcut answer. How does the community rate as to its school system, richness of its intellectual, cultural and musical life, its physical attractiveness as a place to live? Here the Township would score high. And what about public recreational facilities and shopping possibilities? Our rating would be fair. Finally, what is the size and diversity of the local labor or supply; could employees at different income levels find places to live; and are there apartments to provide housing flexibility for employees on arrival or coming for short stays? How satisfactory is local public transportation, internally and to nearby areas? On these criteria, we would deserve a low rating.

Every such firm might end up with a different estimate, depending on how it weighed the various factors. No one can be sure how the Township, as a host community for such research installations, averages out in the ratings—but one stands and gazes over the empty acres of the research zone, an answer suggests itself: IF WE WANT TO SEE THOSE ACRES DEVELOPED IN THE NEXT FIVE TO TEN YEARS INTO A FLOURISHING, ATTRACTIVE COMMUNITY OF APPROPRIATE RESEARCH, AND PERHAPS LIGHT INDUSTRIAL FACILITIES—SOMETHING THAT WILL TRULY GIVE US SOME LEVERAGE ON OUR TAX PROBLEM—WE MUST MAKE A CONCERTED ATTACK THROUGH TECHNIQUES AND APPROACHES NOT PREVIOUSLY TRIED! I propose that we do three things.

First, we must reorient our thinking to a unified, coordinated conception of the problem of attracting these ratables. We must realize that decisions made in many different areas of local affairs will affect our appeal as a host community—in multiple housing, recreation, sewer and water policy, adequacy and attractiveness of shopping facilities, local public transportation, and many others. We should not stand agape at the idea we might have to spend some money in the short run in order "to make more money" in the longer run—a familiar business principle.

Second, we should be prepared to offer professional services in dealing with this specific question. Our already-established commission on economic development—like so many other Township bodies, a group of busy people who contribute their time on a volunteer basis—would surely welcome the advice and guidance of professionals in mounting a campaign. We have done this in evolving the Master Plan, and in developing plans in such areas as sewer extension and Princeton Community Park. Why should we not do likewise on the problem which is at the very heart of the future financial stability of the Township.

Finally, and most important, we should try to work out an active partnership arrangement with Princeton University in planning and developing the research zone. I realize that the simply stating this idea, a great deal is left to be accomplished; but there are reasons to suppose that it is an approach well worth exploring. There is, it seems to me, a basic harmony of interests between the University and the Township which is rarely articulated and which certainly has not been capitalized in this respect. What advantages could such a partnership bring? For the Township, it would mean working in concert with the institution whose presence here is re-

Help to ensure the continuance of imaginative and responsible local government. Re-elect William W. Marvel to the Township Committee on November 7.

Why I Plan to Vote

Republican

By Theodore H. Kelly

Democratic

By Ann S. Hofesang

I will vote for Henry S. Patterson for Mayor, and for Joseph R. Wood and Alan W. Carrick for Borough Council on November 7 because the program to which they are dedicated is one I consider vital for the future well-being of Princeton. I am convinced that these three Republican candidates have the training, experience, talent and determination to carry out the program they advocate.

In Princeton—with men in both parties devoted to community service and a well-informed electorate—the parties must present candidates whose character and intelligence command the respect of the voters. We have here no simple choice between the "good guys" and the "bad guys," but between honestly advocated programs or points of view. We must assess the various candidates' abilities to implement the programs with which we agree.

In my opinion the routine administration of Borough affairs is being conducted efficiently, as for many years it has been under men of both parties, and as I think it will continue to be regardless of this election's outcome. There are, however, two grave and specific issues—traffic planning and Urban Renewal—wherein a clear-cut choice can be made.

The Republican candidates have unequivocally stated their concern with these problems, advocating clearly thought-out programs to deal with them. The Democratic candidates for Borough Council have not done so.

Anyone driving a car on the Borough's congested streets is painfully aware that this community is being strangled by traffic. Driving on Nassau Street is always nerve-wracking; during the morning and afternoon rush hours it is totally frustrating. To have allowed our principal street to continue so long serving as a through highway, jammed with trucks and transient traffic, represents a record of inaction hard to understand.

The long-proposed 206-A must be built to correct the smothering congestion in the heart of town, and to relieve the hazardous conditions at the Bayard Lane intersection and on Washington Road. The need for action is serious and immediate. The Republican candidates have the will and forcefulness to act.

On the Urban Renewal issue, Messrs. Patterson, Wood and Carrick have all stated their opposition in unmistakable terms, a stand highly satisfying to anyone who has studied the matter. By contrast, the equivocations and evasions of their opponents should be of serious concern to the voters. On a matter that could change the essential character of the town we should know where they stand, and why.

Good government, I believe, is that which does for its citizens only that which they are unable to do for themselves. The prospect of a handout from the federal government sounds enticing, but until the old truism "you pay for what you get" has lost its validity, I think we must consider carefully what we would pay—and get—before accepting such a "gift." There is considerable evidence that we can well do without it. When the rights of private citizens and property owners are arbitrarily violated, I think we pay too dearly.

In other communities, Urban Renewal has uprooted unwilling citizens to make way for apartment houses, supermarkets, or parking lots. I should hate to see it happen here.

Possibly the proponents of

I shall vote for Raymond F. Male for re-election to the office of Mayor and for Esther Dilworth and John Redding for Borough Council.

Mayor Male should be re-elected by virtue of his record. The citizens of Princeton deserve to benefit from his leadership for as long as he is willing to serve. We have all had opportunities to meet him and to hear him. He attends all public functions to which he is invited. He is available to all at his weekly Open House, where literally hundreds have brought their problems or questions to him. This important contribution to the office of Mayor has permitted all of us to recognize his devoted, untiring pursuance of the office of Mayor.

Ray Male is eminently qualified for the office he now holds. He is a public administrator by education, and has had a wealth of experience in local, state and federal service. He is recognized throughout the country for his governmental achievements. He is personally well-informed in all areas of government: finance, welfare, recreation, public works, etc.; and is able to relate the proper function of these fields to the benefit of the community.

The Mayor's record deserves review:

1. He has characterized his entire administration as "open government." The council sessions are now actually "work" sessions where all actions are arrived at after "open" discussion.

2. The Press has been kept informed by "Open House," by informal meetings, and by prepared agenda received in advance of all council meetings. The weekly "Mayor's Report" in every newspaper has kept the community informed of his activities—and the quality of the Mayor's performance.

3. The last four years have seen a more representative government, in that citizens of varied interests, backgrounds, and from all sections of town have been appointed to serve on local boards of Planning, Health, Welfare and Zoning.

4. Prudent financial management is stressed by the Mayor and all available funds are invested to help maintain a sound financial condition.

5. The all important Borough Master Plan is being updated. A professional planner is employed by the Borough to assist the Planning Board and its citizens advisory committee on the future of our historic town.

6. Community renewal is a process by which we can systematically preserve our community. The Mayor recognizes this as a program of vital importance to the community. Federal funds are available to any town from federal taxes we have already paid. Some of these funds are available to us also—to be used for selective rebuilding. Actually, effective use of these federal funds would permit us to use our local funds for other important projects—schools, libraries, etc. Also, this program now makes available funds at low rates of interest for renovating individual homes to the owners themselves. We are indebted to the Mayor for his foresight and concern with this progress.

7. Every effort is made by the Mayor to work closely with the educational institutions and neighboring communities. There are many inter-related problems and activities for which cooperation is required.

Esther Dilworth would make a strong contribution to our Borough Council. She is experienced in matters of Health and Welfare, areas of

2. Sylvan's prices now mean that you can save $250 up to $650 depending upon size. Example: a 20' x 40' pool priced at $4790 may now be purchased for $4390.
3. Pool shown above—the 3 pools in 1 Sylvan "S"—may now, for the first time, be purchased at no extra cost. Has clear swimming, separate diving & wading area.
4. By buying & installing your pool now you have the opportunity for arranging and completing all your landscaping before the next full swimming season arrives.
5. Buy and install your Sylvan Pool now and be assured of swimming from the first warm day next season. This means you will have 100% usage of your pool next year.
6. The savings you'll enjoy for installation now may, in many cases, cover the purchase of a Pool Heater that will extend swimming throughout the month of October.

Republican

Urban Renewal have no such plans for developing the Jackson Street area. Possibly they have no plans at all. They certainly have not told us what they do propose.

The Republicans present three men of outstanding ability. Mr. Patterson has had extensive business and financial experience, and in addition has long studied and worked for the cause of good government. The invaluable knowledge of real estate law and community planning that Mr. Carrick offers, and Mr. Wood's broad engineering background and ability to assume responsibility, as evidenced by his outstanding military career, should contribute heavily to the effectiveness of the council.

We, as voters, should be profoundly thankful that men of such calibre are offering their service in public office. I shall vote for them with pride.

Democratic

our government which need particular attention at this time. She is President of VNA and understands our numerous community functions. She would work diligently and effectively to bring us the best possible government.

John Redding is a highly respected member of Council and Republicans and Democrats alike hold him in high esteem for his astuteness in financial matters. He has been instrumental in finally making it possible to achieve more off-street parking facilities. We must see to it that he is returned to Council.

It seems to me most important that Democratic members retain Council seats. These candidates must be elected in order not to have a council composed of all Republicans. Two-party, representative government must be continued in order to assure growth and progress and to guarantee that no issues are hidden or permitted to lie dormant.

The record of this administration is one of responsiveness to the people, of keeping the people informed, of encouraging citizen participation, of moving toward resolving community problems, and of furthering the fine relationship among business, education and the private citizen.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think women employers would be rougher on female employees than male?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Mrs. Robert W. Krueger, 28 Markham Road, political committeewoman: In my life as a secretary in the business world, I have worked for only one woman employer, and she was a jewel. Co-workers, however, have protested frequently and bitterly about their female bosses. They are very hard to work for; they are cool, detached and too demanding. My theory on this would be that female employers who do not have a happy personal life tend to be difficult in their business life.

Harry Uffelmann, Palmer Labs, scientific glass blower: I don't think so. I think a woman is more sensitive in these things. A man thinks only in terms of his business; a woman will think in terms other than her job. I think women will cooperate a lot more than men will.

Miss Patricia Tyler, Stockton, secretary for Firestone Library: No. I have a woman boss and she is very easy to work for. She is understanding and fair, as I know she would be for both sexes. I worked for a man once and that was too much; it was wicked.

Miss Sue Still, Lambertville, typist for Firestone Library: Yes, I think they expect much more and they're a lot fussier than the men. I've had two female bosses and both were fussy.

Mrs. Dorothy E. Green, Great Road, housewife: I'm a good one to ask because I have worked for both, and the answer is yes. I think a man is a logical, reasoning animal; a woman is an emotional one. I love women but not as bosses. I would never work for another one.

Richard Gemberling, 24 Church Street, Kingston, lab technician: Yes, I think they are. When my wife worked for a male employer, she came home happier than when she worked for a female boss. I think a male is a little more lenient toward a female employee. Women bosses tend to be pushy and catty. I've seen it in offices.

Mrs. Margaret Turitzin, 102 Dempsey Avenue, teacher at University League nursery school: No. I think if women want to be successful employers, they must learn to apply objectivity in their relationship with their employees. I don't think women expect more from other women than they do the men.

Mrs. JoAnn Antony, 408-B Devereux Avenue, secretary: Definitely. I think women hold grudges more than men. I always thought women employers were a little more strict. I guess that's just the nature of women—to be more strict and harsh.

Charles McNally, Belle

Mead, quality-control inspector for Ford Motor Co.: Yes. I think an employer tends to be more lenient to an employee of the opposite sex. I think the natural attraction of men for women and vice-versa is a factor here. When a man is interviewing women for a job an attractive woman applies, he makes allowances. When a woman is interviewing women, she takes a no-nonsense approach. It wouldn't make any difference how attractive the applicant might be if she isn't qualified, she won't get the job. I've seen this happen time and again.

Miss Joan St. Clair, Westminster Choir College, student: Yes. Psychologically they criticize other women because they see in them their own flaws.

Mrs. Ann Metzel, Robbinsville, clerk typist: Yes. I think women expect more from another woman. They're harder to work for. They want nearer work and more of it.

Anthony Delaversano, Genesee Street, Trenton, mail clerk for Forrestal: To a certain extent. The way that her employees dress might irk the boss. She might resent being outdressed and out-appealed. Petty things like that. Women are funny.

Mrs. Calvin Wolf, 151 Snowden Lane, housewife: I would say no. I have worked for many women and they were just as pleasant to work for as men. You can't generalize. It depends on the person and his personality. There are some men who have the traits you would ordinarily associate with women. Some are just as finicky and persnickety as some women are.

Robin F. Freer, Holder Hall, University junior: Yes. A woman will see through a woman's attempt to get around work quicker than a man will because she uses the same weapons herself.

Miss Aino Engstrand, 120 Prospect Avenue, secretary: Yes. I feel you have to work harder for a woman than a man. Men aren't so pushy. A girl has to work much harder in an office in Sweden than she does here.

Thomas Douglas, 85 Paxson, Trenton, sales administrator for Mettler Instruments: I believe they would be.

The woman employer is out to prove she can handle responsibility better than a man and is inclined to be rougher on women in order to avoid showing any favoritism toward her fellow female employee. There seems to be an unwritten aversion to female supervision in this country.

SCHOOL MAKES PLANS

For Sacred Heart. Following expiration of the 45-day appeal period, the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart has announced that plans for developing its 50-acre campus on The Great Road will proceed at an increased pace.

The Township Zoning Board approved the school's application for a special permit on August 25, following four lengthy public hearings at which several neighbors of the school expressed their disapproval; however, none of the disapproving neighbors filed an appeal within the allotted 45-day period.

Russell O'Brien, chairman of the school's advisory board, has announced that committees for various activities involved in planning for the new school will be announced shortly.

He also said that the architectural program, under Jean Labatut, is proceeding, and that the school is preparing site plans and engineering plans for presentation to Township authorities.

Mr. O'Brien announced that a full status report would be made and a timetable presented at a general meeting of sponsors and friends of the project, to be held when plans are more fully developed.

Mr. Powell's talk deals with the "Challenge of Change." It illustrates how a stampeding technology is drastically changing the political, economic, business and social dimensions of the world. Man's sometimes profound technological history is traced down through the ages. Proceeding from "Adam to Atom," the "Oat Barrier" and the "Sound Barrier" are broken, and today is seen in a new perspective. The keynote of the talk is that the "Challenge of Change" offers fantastic opportunity to the alert, executive who is willing to pioneer the frontier of new ideas and who keeps pace with progress.

Dear TRAVELEX,

Sometime when you're down around the Caribbean try the Curacao International hotel. It's a very modern and comfortable hotel, but how 'bout this, now! It has been built into a Napoleonic water fort!! It's in the shape of a triangle. Two sides are right in the middle of a little Dutch town while the third side is the water side and lower levels have port holes where you can watch your friends arrive on the next cruise ship! Have your dinner on top of the old, old stone sea wall! The swimming pool, etc., is in the center of the triangle in the open court yard. Everything is air conditioned and all sports are near at hand: tennis, golf and, of course, deep-sea fishing.

Don't forget that Curacao is a free port and oohhhh those bargains!!!

As ever,

Nancy

"I BELIEVE"

Candidates Speak. Candidates for Borough and Township office continue this week to issue statements explaining their positions on public questions.

Councilman John J. Redding, Jr., candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket, says that all but one parcel of land in the Park Place parking lot is now available. He states his belief that the lot will remove pedestrian hazards, allow delivery trucks to use rear entrances and provide more parking space at lower cost than the Public Service lot.

Mayor Raymond F. Male, incumbent seeking a third term, has cited the role of Mr. Redding in bringing about improvement in traffic and parking problems. Mr. Male also says that the Borough has put persistent pressure on "key places" to effect the construction of a Route 206 by-pass.

"We must and will continue to press for an early priority to the construction of the by-pass," states Mr. Male. "We have had to face the fact that other communities have a much higher priority because of death, injury and traffic density problems. Our job has been to persuade the state that Princeton as a great historic, cultural and research center, is a vital resource for the entire state."

Republicans, Henry Patterson, Republican candidate for mayor, and his colleagues, Alan Carrick and Joseph R. Wood, candidates for Council, accuse the Male administration of being unresponsive to the will of the people, and unwilling to make its operations an "open book."

"As for the Jackson Street blight project," the statement says, "the lack of public information about the Borough's ultimate redevelopment plans is a notorious fact. . . . The mayor and other pro-blighters are apparently proceeding on the premise that they know best and the citizens need not be told of their plans."

The Republican candidates also charge that the Borough has been "unresponsive" in regard to the policy to construct sidewalks on all Borough streets. "The word seems to be 'Papa knows best' and that you are going to get sidewalks whether they are needed or not," the statement says.

Township. Replying in an open letter to William Wilson, his Republican opponent, William Marvel, Democratic candidate for re-election to Township Committee, takes issue with Mr. Wilson's "Financial Master Plan" outlined last week.

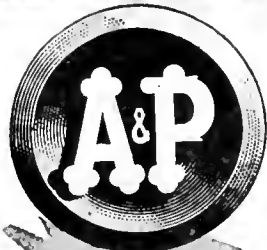

Mr. Marvel asks "In view of the inherent difficulty of future scheduling of capital expenditures a municipality faces, how would a 10-20 year Financial Master Plan work?"

Answering Mr. Wilson's belief that Township taxes are about to become confiscatory, Mr. Marvel says that a taxpayer with two children paying less than $1,000 a year, has a smaller tax bill than it costs to send his children to school.

Commenting on Mr. Wilson's demand for "rigid economies" in all areas, coupled with necessary projects in health and education, Mr. Marvel says that education is the responsibility of the Board of Education, not Township Committee, and questions Mr. Wilson's stand on the need for such projects as roads, sidewalks, the library, and recreation.

that Committee avoid debt financing for short-term improvements. Mr. Marvel expounds his belief that future taxpayers who use an improvement should share in its cost. He also says that, since avoiding debt financing from capital improvements, such a policy would force a "truly confiscatory" rise in taxes.

Mr. Wilson, in this week's statement, continues his plea for "self-denial and fiscal conservatism" to avoid a "runaway tax rate" in the Township.

He says that a tax rise from 1961 to 1971 comparable to the rise between 1951 and 1961 would "destroy property values, bar many middle or lower-income families from the community and make living in Princeton Township a luxury few of us could afford."

Urging a "go-slow" approach to new expenditures, Mr. Wilson asks that Committee abandon any thought of municipal snow-removal. He also asks that the Township put as many projects as possible on a self-liquidating basis. "If the original users of more municipal activities are able to meet the cost of the services they receive, these can be paid off in an orderly way and then can be made cost-free, he states.

THREE MINORS CHARGED

With Possession of Alcohol. Three Princeton youths were arrested near the Nassau Street School Thursday night and charged with illegal possession of alcoholic beverages in a public place. They are Ernest F. Hunt, 19, 90 Westcott Road; Tolvo Pihio, 18, 19 University Place; and Frederick W. Darke, 18, 61 Laurel Road.

Police said that Hunt and Pihio each had a bottle of liquor on their person. All were released upon posting of $25 bail. In criminal court Monday, Darke pleaded guilty and was fined $15 by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. The hearings for the other two were postponed.

FINED IN COURT

By Township. Two residents of the Princeton area were fined by Magistrate James Hill in Township Court.

Joel E. Nystrom, Jr., 27, Skillman Road, was fined $15 on a careless driving charge, and Eddie Hernandez, 28, 14 Leigh Ave., was fined $25 after pleading not-guilty to a disorderly conduct charge. Township police had charged that Hernandez struck another man.

$12,000 IS GOAL

Of Planned Parenthood. The Planned Parenthood Association of the Mercer Area, which is conducting its annual drive for operating funds, seeks a minimum of $12,000 this year. This low figure is maintained through the extensive use of daily volunteer help. Mrs. G. Hutton Hughes of Princeton is chairman of the campaign. Committee chairmen from this area assisting her include: Mrs. Walter Roberts, special gifts; Mrs. Julius L. Stern, acknowledgements; Mrs. Elmer Alpert, publicity; and Mrs. Alfred Test, follow-up.

BUSINESS In Princeton

QUARTER ENDS
Index for Summer. The business picture for Princeton during the summer months of July, August and September is reflected in the chart on this page, published as TOWN
TOPICS' regular quarterly Business Index.

For this summer quarter, the index shows some minus quantities that were not present in the corresponding quarter last year. For example, new car sales are down eight percent over 1960. In 1960 at this time, they were up six percent over 1959.

Parking meter receipts, almost always down in the summer because of vacations, were even lower last summer than in 1960. The decline is 4 percent: approximately $700 less than a year ago. Much of this can probably be traced to the move of Educational Testing Service from 20 Nassau on July 1.

Building permits in the Township are up 15 percent over a year ago. (Five of these are for fallout shelters.) New housing starts are down 56 percent over last year, and 50 percent over last quarter. A year ago, they were also down (22 percent) over the summer quarter of 1959.

Although building permits are down sharply, property transfers declined only a few percent in each municipality over last year. The summer buying season—when houses look their best—is responsible for the high percentage of property transfers. The Town-
proximately the same, relative to 1959.

At the banks, the situation is plus, all around. Savings accounts, checking accounts and loans are all up and the percentage of rise over 1960 in all three categories is significantly greater.

HICKS JOINS FIRM
Lawyer Becomes Partner.
The law firm of McCarthy and Baesik has announced that A. C. Reeves Hicks has become a partner in the Charlton Street firm. It will now be known as McCarthy, Baes-ik and Hicks.

A graduate of Princeton with the class of 1946, Mr.
Hicks received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1949. He has practiced law in Princeton since 1958 and has served as Magistrate for West Windsor Township since that year.

"MOUSE" IS COVERED
In Trade Publication.
The Country Mouse, gift shop at 164 Nassau, is described in full, with illustrations, in the October issue of "The Gift and Art Buyer," trade publication of gift-shop owners.

The article gives particular attention to the advertising art used by "The Country Mouse," all of which is drawn by the shop's owner, Samuel McDowell, art teacher at Princeton High School. A Valentine's Day ad which appeared last February in TOWN TOPICS on two succeeding pages as a "peepthrough" is reproduced in the magazine and described in detail.

In addition the story mentions the post-blizzard ad run by the shop in TOWN TOPICS last winter, showing the Mouse perched on stilts above a snow-drift.

According to the article, the shop has increased its cheddar cheese sales to 30 pounds a week average, by turning customers with free sample cubes. The author also cites, as an indication of "Country Mouses" success, the fact that last Christmas, which was the first for the new shop, Mr. McDowell had to hire four temporary clerks.

Two interior views of the shop, a photograph of the Valentine ad and a picture of the street sign are used as illustrations.

REALTY FIRM ORGANIZED

lingen Reformed Church. The offices are located in the building which was formerly the Dutchtown School.

dent of Dutchtown Realty. J.

Education, and Mr. Fenyk is, in addition, a member of the advisory committee of the Montgomery Planning Board.
Mr. Platz is a member of the Montgomery Township Committee.

Dutchtown Realty will sell general real estate, farms, country homes, industrial and commercial sites and acreage within a 15-mile radius of its offices.

POWELL TO SPEAK

At Money-Music Forum, J.
Lewis Powell, noted author and lecturer, will lecture on "Cave Man to Space Man" at the concluding session of the "Money and Music" Forum presented by Princeton Bank and Trust Company. The Princeton University Glee Club will present the second half of the program.

The final presentation of the series is scheduled for next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Princeton High School Auditorium. Mr. Powell, a featured speaker at the American Management Association in New York, will trace man's technological history down through the ages, from "Adam to Atom."

The keynote of his talk is that the "challenge of change" offers rare opportunity to the alert executive who is willing to pioneer the frontier of new ideas and keep pace with progress. Mr. Powell believes that, despite the fantastic advances in science and technology, there are still no electronic brains at the echelon of top management decision.

Concluding the program will be a selection of religious, spiritual and football songs by the Princeton University Glee Club, under the direction of Walter Nollner, assistant professor of music at Princeton University. Serving his fourth year at Princeton, Mr. Nollner was formerly conductor of the men's and women's Glee Clubs and at the University of California and Williams College.

The camera shows him just as he grabbed the ball at the one-foot line and started on ten-yard return that took the Tigers out of trouble with 30 seconds left to play. Tailback Hugh MacMillan (47) was also covering Al Campbell, intended Penn receiver, whom he partially screens. ## SPORTS In Princeton

COASTING SEASON ENDS

For Tiger Football Team, A Colgate football team that ran over Pennsylvania in a pre-season scrimmage and has shut out its last two opponents, Bucknell and Harvard, will provide Princeton with a full measure of opposition on Saturday. The Palmer Stadium kickoff is set for 2 o'clock.

If Princeton fails to improve the brand of football it displayed in barely staying off a mediocre Penn eleven, 9 to 3, Colgate is entirely likely to take home its first triumph from here since its 12-10 victory of 1957. In short, the Tigers cannot expect underdog opposition to beat itself merely by taking the field.

The visitors from the Chango Valley were routed, it is true, in their opener by unpredictable Cornell, losing 34-0. Since then, however, Tiger scout Bill Whitton reports that they have shown extremely visible improvement in blanking Bucknell, 13-0, and Harvard, 15-0.

Quarterback Dan Keating, no more than 170 pounds but extremely adept at running the Colgate attack—which features an unbalanced T and a lonely end—is responsible for much of the Red Raiders' renovation. Halfbacks Jim Heil-man and Jim Deegan are the top running threats, with Colgate chewing up Harvard's defense for 223 yards last weekend.

Tigers in Shape. With the exception of Bruce Hartman, the linebacker out for the season, Princeton began the week with hopes of mustering full strength on Saturday. Hank Large, whose presence was missed at end against Penn, was expected to be back, and Barry Schuman, his counterpart on the left side of the line, is ready for 100 percent action.

Greg Riley, who sat out most of the second half after being heavily jarred in the third period, is set to start at tailback. Hopes are that the Tigers will return to the offensive form that saw a good Columbia team beaten when they posted 30 points on the scoreboard. Despite ability to hold Penn to a field goal Saturday, there was continued evidence that defense will be a season-long weakness with Princeton.

MISTAKES MAR ACTION

In Near-Loss to Penn. It may have been inevitable that Princeton tended to coast against Penn after solid performances in its first two games, but the Tigers' let-down very nearly ruined their bright early-season showing. The rain and the slippery ball and footing conceivably hurt them—a running-passing team—more than they bothered Penn, which has no passing attack this year, but there was no overlooking the fact that the underdog Quakers came extremely close to staging a major upset.

Driving 71 yards in the final eight minutes over the treacherous turf, Penn had a first-and-goal situation on the Princeton nine. Time was working against John Stigman's entry, forcing it to the air with 1:08 to go.

Fortune favored the Tigers, a pitch over the middle hanging short of two potential receivers and sailing squarely into the arms of linebacker Al Swenson less than a yard from the goal line. The interception was the key to victory, two line plays serving to run out the clock and install Princeton in a first-place tie with Dartmouth in the Ivy standings.

Earlier, a picturesque 33-yard burst and cutback around right end by Greg Riley (see "We Congratulate") brought Princeton the day's lone touchdown. Fine blocks by Dan Terpack (who threw one behind the line of scrimmage) and tackle Andy Conner made Riley's trip possible. Had this scintillating play not been executed, the Tigers might well have been the victims of a weird 3-2 upset.

Their two points were achieved when quarterback Bill Laird red-dogged Quaker end John Packard, standing behind his goal line to punt. The ball bounced out of the end zone at 9:39 of the second quarter to make it 9-0.

An offside penalty just before the half ended was costly, giving Penn a second shot at a field goal after the first one had fizzled out from the Princeton 45. Tackle Siegfried Molnar made good from the 29 on his next attempt, the resultant paring of Princeton's margin to six points being responsible for all the nail-chewing when the Quakers launched their desperation fourth-quarter drive.

Three pass interceptions and three fumbles, two of which Penn recovered, stalled one Princeton attack after another throughout the soggy afternoon. The victors spent the third quarter deep in Quaker territory, but without success, and then could not go beyond the Penn 41 in the final period, which almost saw them bagged and broiled.

Virtually any kind of running game will apparently be able to puncture the Princeton line this fall, increasing the need for good pass de-

Rule Change Advocated

Princeton was in a position to lose a football game Saturday because earlier in the contest it had been penalized for doing something too well; the Pennsylvania punt it blocked in the second period was smothered so solidly that it was worth only two points instead of six.

If a baseball is hit over the fence, it's a home run. But in football, if a kick is partially blocked and stays in the end zone, it's worth six points if the defensive team falls on it, only two if the block is executed so solidly that the ball bounds beyond the goal posts.

The ruling is inconsistent in this sense, too: if a blocked punt goes out of bounds and the defensive team is the last to touch it, it is automatically awarded possession. However, when a blocked kick bounces out of the end zone, the fact that the defensive team touched it last has no bearing. Under existing rules, a team blocking a goal line kick too solidly—in the area of play where such a feat is most difficult—is penalized for doing something too well.

Princeton Tailback

There was only one touchdown scored in the mud and rain Saturday but it went to a sure-footed back who ran and out on the soggy Palmer Stadium turf as if the field was bone-dry. Severely shaken up early in the second half and unable to return to action, he still picked up enough yardage running and passing to assume a commanding lead in total offense as the Ivy League rounds out the first third of the season.

Two factors work heavily in Greg Riley's favor: he is deceptively fast, out-sprinting many a tackler after getting the briefest kind of block, and he has the rare knack of setting up his interference beautifully. Many a college ball carrier completes three years on the varsity without ever learning to pause momentarily while a teammate squares away on an oncoming opponent.

Along with a clear majority of the Tiger squad this season, Riley was a question mark—at least on offense. Last fall, while "wild-carding" on defense for Hugh Scott and Jack Sullivan, he had run and passed a total of just 26 times.

Now, his 271-yard total offense (for an average of 7.4 yards every time he has put the ball in motion) have earned him first place in Ivy action to date, even over Columbia players who have been in one more game. On the season, his 182 yards gained against Rutgers make his overall total even more impressive: 453 yards in three games.

a pace which, if maintained would rank him second only to Dick Kazmaier in total offense for one campaign.

A compactly-built 175 pounds, the 20-year old junior prepared at Aquinas Institute in home-town Rochester for Princeton. His field of study here is biology.

Indications are clear that defensive difficulties are likely to plague Princeton throughout the 1961 season. A highly-dependable safetyman who this year is adding an explosive punch to the Tigers' offense, Riley's all-around ability has done much to earn the Orange and Black an early first-place rating in the Ivy League standings.

13-7 defeat when he intercepted a Little Tiger pass on the Tornado seven-yard line with less than a minute to play. It was the losers' second setback in three games.

Coach Joe Jingo's players will try to even their record Friday when they play host to Trenton Catholic. The game, the Blue and White's home opener, will start at 3:15. Princeton High's remaining three games against Steiner, Long Branch and Hamilton will all be played on Harris Field.

Like PHS, Trenton Catholic has found the competition rugged this year, losing three out of four. The Wave dropped decisions to Vineland and Bishop Egan earlier this year and absorbed a 33-0 thumping Sunday at the hands of Red Bank Catholic. It was the worst defeat suffered by the Greenwood Avenue players since 1959, when Princeton High's Jack Hawkins and company rolled over them, 40-0.

Friday's game will also mark the fourth consecutive time that PHS, a Group III school, has played a larger school. Trenton is rated as a Group A school among Catholic schools. This battering by larger school stakes its toll and is one of the reasons why Princeton High has applied for admission to the South-Central Jersey League. A decision on the application should be reached this month, reported Jingo, who is also athletic director for the school.

On Friday the 13th, PHS had 13 points scored against it. Dodging PHS tacklers instead of black cats, the Tornado ball carriers ground out a 13-0 lead which the losers threatened to equal in the final period. Lady Luck utilized the Little Tigers until the last 47 seconds of the game before she chose to have Davis slam the door shut with his key interception.

THS Dominates Play. The home team clearly had the advantage in the first half. Its first scoring threat in the first quarter aborted with Charlie Pemberton's interception on his own four-yard line of one of the two passes TC was to throw all day.

In the next quarter, the victors were not to be denied, driving 69 yards in 16 plays. Tom Ritter capped the march with a six-yard sweep around left end. Dick Botts kicked the extra point.

PHS stood out only in contrast. In a total of 14 running plays in the first half, the Little Tigers gained a scant 39 yards and three first downs. One of its two passes was intercepted; the other was good for 14-yards.

Fumble Costly. Princeton opened the second half by fumbling away the ball on its own three. Don Meredith, THS quarterback, pushed the ball over on his second try to make it 13-0. A penalty gave Botts another chance to convert the PAT but he failed again to make good.

With less than four minutes to play, the Little Tigers caught fire. Following a short punt that carried only to the 35, the visitors drove to the THS 11 with the help of a 15-yard face-mask penalty. From there Don Cooper skirted end for the six-pointer. Tom Olsen kicked the PAT.

After Trenton was forced to punt, PHS, striking through the air, again drove toward the Tornado goal. Cooper, who had sparked the drive with his passing, was hurt, however, with 1:20 remaining, and had to leave the game. His successor promptly fired the ball

It was a tough one to lose. Coach Jingoli said that his players "did everything but win in the second half. They played their hearts out. They gave all they had and you can't ask any more than that," he said.

Jingoli was high in his praise for Cooper, saying he played a terrific game. Only a sophomore, much more should be heard from him in future games. Also cited by Jingoli was the defensive play of Pete Greenfield and Gary Mount.

HUN BEATS QUAKERS

For Third In A Row. The Hun football team, off to its best start in several years, faces perhaps its stiffest test of the season Friday when it travels to Wilmington to play unbeaten Tower Hill. The Red and Black, in nine tries, has never beaten Tower Hill.

Hun coach Hawley Waterman reported Hun should have a chance against Tower Hill this year but that it definitely would be the underdog. "If we are to get by them, we're going to have to click 100% on everything we do, play our usual good defensive game, and have a lot of luck," said Waterman. "You can't make any mistakes against Tower Hill and expect to win."

Both squads are unbeaten. Hun scored its third straight triumph, and second shutout victory, Friday when it blanked Germantown Friends, 20-0 on its home field. Tower Hill, which had an open date last week, has won its first two, knocking off Malvern the week before, 22-7. Malvern had been rated the top team in the Philadelphia Prep League.

Hun tuned up for Tower Hill by bumping Germantown Friends from the unbeaten ranks. The Red and Black scored the first time it had the ball following an interception by Paul Savidge, played a standout defensive game, and added two scores in final quarter to gain the victory. For the Philadelphia eleven, it was the first defeat in three games.

Walsh Scores. In the opening minutes of action, co-captain Paul Savidge intercepted a Quaker pass on the Germantown 30-yard line and ran it back to the 10. Joe D'Antona carried to the four, from where quarterback Tim Walsh streaked over. Gary Grover ran the point after touchdown to make it 8-0.

Hun threatened to score several times in the next two periods, but its drives were halted by costly fumbles or penalties. A six-yard scoring run by Grover in the third quarter was nullified by a penalty. Between thrusts, fine defensive play by the Hun line and its three linebackers, co-captains Paul and Pete Savidge and D'Antona, contained the Quaker ball carriers.

Hun iced its victory in the fourth quarter when it broke through twice more for scores. A 40-yard pass, Grover to freshman end Al Rubino, highlighted a 67-yard march which was capped by Walsh's four-yard carry. The PAT failed.

After an exchange of punts, Hun scored again. For the third time in as many games, the alert, line-backing D'Antona intercepted an enemy pass and ran it back for a touchdown. This time he went 25-yards. Hun failed to convert the PAT for the second time.

LARRIES SAVE STREAK

By Tying Andover. Lawrenceville's football team survived its 24th game without a loss last Saturday by pulling out a 6-6 tie at Andover. A 70-yard run by Lynn Morrow in the final quarter erased a 6-0 Andover lead.

A successful placement following the touchdown was nullified by a 15-yard penalty for holding. A second conversion attempt failed. The tie was the second for Lawrenceville in its unbeaten streak of 24 games. The Larries have a 2-0-1 record this season.

Andover scored its lone touchdown on a 70-yard drive in the third period. Dan Hootstein capped the drive with an off-tackle plunge from the three-yard line.

Lawrenceville will face Peddie in a home contest this Saturday at 2:30. Peddie holds the other tie with Lawrenceville, a 13-13 deadlock played last season.

BOWLING NOTES

Ivy Inn Takes Over. Ivy Inn (27) won only two games last week but still managed to move into first place in the "B" League, one point ahead of Edwards Engraving and three ahead of Kase to high-light Princeton area bowling action last week. In the "A" loop, Shelton maintained a one-game lead over Yeoman's and Princeton Inn, tied at 26 each, for the third straight week.

The King Pins topped the ETS circuit with 16 points, followed by five teams tied at 10 each. Tiger Garage (26) led the Crescents (23) in the Princeton Industrial League, with First National Bank (16) in third place and the Reformers (14) next. Kingston broke a two-way tie and took undisputed possession of the top spot in the Fireman's loop, one game ahead of Princeton No. 1 and Princeton Junction, tied at 22 each.

In other men's leagues, PPL and Engineering were tied for first in the Faculty loop with 12 points each, and Princeton Market (21) held a three-point margin over Pine Tree in the Classic League. Jefferson Plumbing (36) opened up a two-game margin over Ideal and Gale in the Women's Industrial circuit, and Ammon Homes (33) held only a slim one-point edge over Conover as that two-team race continued in the Women's League.

Carol Harris rolled the top women's score of the week with a 204 in the Women's loop. Other high scores included Louise Reickard, 198; Mella Fowler, 189; and Helen Tanasi, 181, in the Women's League; and Helen Lowe, 201; Peg Ranallo, 198; Joyce Spain, 187; Rose Zinetti, 184; and Barbara Danner, 182, in the Women's Industrial loop.

Seminary Goes Big Time

Although it has scheduled Union Theological Seminary as its homecoming opponent because Notre Dame was already booked, Princeton Theological Seminary expects the largest football crowd in its 150 years Saturday. The game will be played at 10:30 a.m. on Mercer Field, where neither seats, nor programs nor even goal posts will be provided.

A half-time ceremony will be presented by the Gus Feather Marching Band, consisting of three kazoes, a concertina, a slide whistle and tom-toms, with a stray beagle as mascot. Students have strung a "Beat Union" banner across the dining hall, even if some other opponent shows up, on the theory that "It's a game, man, not an examination!"

Admitting that the affair will be tough, not tackle, football Coach Bill Moore refused to hedge on his prediction of the largest crowd in a century and a half. "It's bound to be," said he firmly. "We've never had spectators before."

Also, Bill Bathie and Fred Procaccini, 214 each; Jimmy Riccioppi, 213; Joe Baldwin, 204; Nick Rossi, 203; and Frank Delneso, 202, in the "B" League; Frank Delneso, 223-213; Fred Procaccini, 212; Mike Zeccola, 203-202; Nick Sculerati, 203; Mike Basile, 202; and Al Hibbard and Harry Kahny, 200 each, in the Classic League; and John Donaldson, 223; Dewey Leonard, 215; Jack Sulphen, 212; Jack Stout, 209; Norm Luck, 204; Mike Kopliner, 202; Gib Ireland, 201; and Frank Stofko, 200, in the Fireman's loop.

Registrants will be asked to choose two one-hour courses from a group of five: "Jeremiah," "Revelation," "Teaching the Bible," "Adult Work," and "Christianity and the American Cult."

Two-hour workshops will be offered for senior high church workers and teachers who have juniors in class. In addition, there will be five "Creative Activities" workshops: "Story Telling," "Rhythmic Movement," "Bulletin Boards and Displays," and "Painting." One will be offered on each of the five Thursday nights, beginning this Thursday with "Rhythmic Movement."

The courses are open, upon payment of a $5.50 registration fee, to all persons in the Princeton area, whether or not they are Sunday School teachers or youth leaders. Registration will be this Thursday at 7 p.m. in Stuart Hall on the Seminary campus.

UNION STUDY HAILED
By Presbytery. The possibilities of union between the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches were hailed last week by the Presbytery of New Brunswick. The group, which represents 42 churches sent greetings to the Rev. Alfred L. Banyard, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey and commented favorably on the recent decision of the Episcopal House of Bishops to study the possibility of uniting the two churches.

In the letter to Bishop Banyard, the Rev. David L. Crawford, Moderator of the Presbytery, said: "Our prayer is that the Holy Spirit will use these discussions to produce new and creative responses to our Lord's prayer that His disciples may be one, in order that the world may believe."

The Presbytery also expressed its hope that Presbyterian and Episcopal parishes in this area will begin to cooperate in various programs.

Keep Valley Road Safe.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I understand that the traffic pattern at the corners of Valley Road and Jefferson Road, and at Valley Road and Witherspoon Street may be changed. Valley Road would become a "through" street and the intersections at Valley Road and Jefferson Road, and Valley Road and Witherspoon Street would be designated "stop" streets. Traffic would then move from Route 206 directly to Harrison Street along Valley Road with the ease that an arterial thoroughfare affords.

The area vitally concerns Valley Road School and the pupils and personnel who are drawn from every part of the Township. Children in kindergarten through the sixth grade walk or ride bicycles to school. From every section of the Township come students to the seventh and eighth grades by bus, bicycle, afoot, or by car. Valley Road with its demanding stops keeps the traffic as a reasonable pace. If cars were permitted to swing onto Valley Road from 206, drivers would traverse several blocks before slowing to the regulatory limit.

The hazards involved in permitting unchecked traffic flow on Valley Road in the vicinity of the school are too great to warrant consideration of such a change.

and Trenton Planned Parenthood Boards merged with headquarters at 202 Academy Street in Trenton. The clinic is open Monday through Friday from 10 to 12 and Thursday nights from 7:30 to 9:30. Its executive director is Mrs. Edward Jemison and Mrs. Robert Rodgers, R.N., is its nurse.

Mrs. Hughes pointed out that the Organization does not rely upon the Delaware Valley or Princeton United Funds for support. In order to expand its facilities and broaden its educational program, it is necessary to look toward new and old friends for financial support.

PSYCHOLOGIST TO SPEAK
At Riverside School, Dr. Enid H. Campbell, professor of psychology at Trenton State College, will be guest speaker at a meeting of parents of Riverside School children Monday at 8:15 in the school's all-purpose room.

Dr. Campbell will discuss the problems of children in the kindergarten and first grade age group. A question and answer period will follow.

New Institute lends you ALL the Money to build your Own Home Anywhere!

Even out in the country . . . or on ocean, river, or lake front

The HEMLOCK HILL. Designed for spacious living, this beautiful house has an extra large living room, dining area, U-shaped kitchen, three ample bedrooms, opening on private hall; bath and large porch. Side entrance between kitchen and dining room offers convenient access to future carport or patio.

Raise your family in a beautiful IEH home like this!
No Money Down! . . . Monthly Payments Less Than Rent!

As Low as

No Cash Necessary!

The Institute for Essential Housing is a national organization sponsored by leading manufacturers to provide high-quality, low-cost housing for people who do not want to live in "look-alike" developments. Thousands of families today are living in these big, beautiful IEH homes that have been built on the lot of their choice for NO MONEY DOWN! You can, too!

Ready-to-live-in for less per month than rent!

Never before has this been possible! A home you can move right into for less than most people pay for rent . . . less than you'd pay for just a "shell." And most important to you, the low monthly payments will make you the proud owner of your home in twelve short years!

Build anywhere you choose!

The Institute will lend you the money to build an IEH home anywhere. That even means out in the country where land costs and taxes are lower . . . and where other mortgages are practically impossible to get. The Institute will also build your home on lake, river or ocean front. If you do not own a lot, IEH will help you to get one.

FREE insurance protection plan!

Insurance, too, is included in your low monthly payments. Your home is insured for 5 years against fire, smoke and wind damage. And, the head of the family receives a twelve year life insurance policy giving the rest of the family the security of a paid-up home if he should pass away.

20 lovely homes!

 If you want a large amount of acreage or a clear view of neighbors on all sides, or a small, conventional city lot, and your land-buying budget is low, this is not for you. HOWEVER...

Heavily wooded and high over a wide brook (there's even an island) the land cries for a distinctive contemporary, or at least for a conventional house that uses its varying contours. High too in price, but in an area where the value is steadily rising.
